HKU Faculty of Dentistry and Prince Philip Dental Hospital to host Open Day on 21 November 2010

The Faculty of Dentistry of The University of Hong Kong (HKU) will hold a joint Open Day with the Prince Philip Dental Hospital (PPDH) on 21 November 2010, to showcase their activities, services, programmes, and facilities.

Aimed at the general public, dental practitioners, paradental staff, and prospective students and trainees, the Open Day will consist of demonstrations, presentations, question-and-answer sessions, and guided tours of the facilities. Staff and students of the Faculty and Hospital will share information and answer questions about a wide range of topics, including:

- Undergraduate curriculum and learning
- Postgraduate programmes and continuing dental education (CDE)
- Auxiliary training programmes
- Research and discovery
- Patient care and clinical service
- Clinical, learning, and research facilities

Refreshments will be provided, and dental practitioners will be able to earn CDE points. “The Faculty and Hospital have a great responsibility for providing world-class dental education and quality care, and conducting cutting-edge research, as well as promoting knowledge exchange with society,” says Professor Lakshman Samaranayake, Faculty Dean and Hospital Director. “This Open Day will be a great opportunity for all sectors of the community to get to know Hong Kong’s sole dental school, and for us to get to know better the community we serve.”
