Prince Philip Dental Hospital named a Caring Organisation

10 February 2009

The Prince Philip Dental Hospital—the dental teaching hospital of The University of Hong Kong and where the HKU Faculty of Dentistry is based—has been recognised as a Caring Organisation by the Hong Kong Council of Social Service (HKCSS).

The “Caring Organisation 2008/09” logo was awarded to acknowledge the Prince Philip Dental Hospital as having been a good corporate citizen in the past year, having satisfied the criteria to demonstrate employee volunteering, being employee-friendly, employing vulnerable groups, and giving back to Hong Kong.

This year’s HKCSS awards were presented by Mr John CW Tsang, Financial Secretary of the HKSAR Government, at a special ceremony organised by the HKCSS on 10 February 2009. Mr Kenneth Tam, Assistant Hospital Administrator (General & Personnel), accepted the award on behalf of the Prince Philip Dental Hospital. “I was happy to represent the Prince Philip Dental Hospital at the Caring Company Recognition Ceremony,” says Mr Tam. “The logo shows that the Hospital is a caring organisation to its staff, the public, and the community, thanks to the unique ‘One Hospital, Two Systems’ relationship between the Hospital and The University of Hong Kong.”
